

Rome, June 19.

On the 22d of June the Combined Army continued in their Camp near Konigingratz. We learnt that a Prussian Detachment, consisting of between 8 and 10,000 Men, which had appeared opposite to us last Night, had been reconnoitring the Ground, and our Position; and that the King was with them. The Prussian Camp is near a little Village called Kralowahota, in the Neighbourhood of Opotichna, and we can easily see the Part of it. In the Afternoon, Prince Charles observed that the Prussians had left some Men in the Forest upon the Alder, which runs by our Front, in order to pass that River, which they afterwards did, and dislodged the Prussians. Thereupon the King sent a Reinforcement from their Camp, which was very near; and they fired several Pieces of Cannon at the Prussian Men, but they kept Possession of the Mill, and have since posted a Body of Austrians there. In the Evening the Left Wing of the Prussians began to cannonade the Right Wing of the Austrians, who returned the Fire. This lasted some Time without doing any great Execution; however, the whole Army remained in the same Position all Night; but after the cannonading had ceased, every Thing was quiet on both Sides. Nevertheless, by way of Precaution, the great Baggage of the Army was sent to Tinicht, about three Leagues from

And for Strengthening the Stomach, immediately creating a good Appetite, causing a regular and easy Digestion of Food, and curing all windy Effects and Disorders of the first Passages (whence proceed Head-achs, Vapours and other Indispositions) no Bitters or other Medicine upon Earth can compare with them, inasmuch that besides infallibly curing the Scurvy in all its Shapes and Appearances, they also securely and immediately cure the Green-Sickness in Virgins, Worms of all Kinds in young or old, and almost all other Chronick Diseases, (which are chiefly occasioned by Indigestion and stantent Crudities in the Stomach and Bowels) and certainly prevent Fevers, Agues, and other acute Illnesses.
